American Medical Association Policy

H-65.992 Continued Support of Human Rights and Freedom. Our AMA continues (1) to support the dignity of the individual, human rights and the sanctity of human life, and (2) to oppose any discrimination based on an individual's sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, race, religion, disability, ethnic origin, national origin or age and any other such reprehensible policies. (Sub. Res. 107, A-85; Modified by CLRPD Rep. 2, I-95; Reaffirmation A-00; Reaffirmation A-05; Modified: BOT Rep. 11, A-07)

H-65.983 Nondiscrimination Policy. The AMA affirms that it has not been its policy now or in the past to discriminate with regard to sexual orientation or gender identity. (Res. 1, A-93; Reaffirmed: CCB Rep. 6, A-03; Modified: BOT Rep. 11, A-07)

H-65.990 Civil Rights Restoration. The AMA reaffirms its long-standing policy that there is no basis for the denial to any human being of equal rights, privileges, and responsibilities commensurate with his or her individual capabilities and ethical character because of an individual's sex, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, or transgender status, race, religion, disability, ethnic origin, national origin, or age. (BOT Rep. LL, I-86; Amended by Sunset Report, I-96; Modified: Res. 410, A-03; Reaffirmation A-05)

Access to healthcare is a basic human right. Currently, most transgender patients face many barriers to accessing appropriate health care. The majority of medical providers have not been trained to provide culturally competent care for transgender patients. The ACGME has recognized the need to include training in transgender care as an essential component of comprehensive medical curricula. However, there are few training programs to meet this need. Particularly in the southeast and in rural and underserved communities, many patients do not have local access to a trained provider.

The Southeastern Transgender Health Summit (SETHS) aims to provide relevant, evidence-based education for medical, behavioral health providers, and community members in order to increase access to care and improve the quality of the care currently available for their transgender patients. This conference will focus on medical and behavioral health care across the lifespan from adolescence through older adulthood. In addition to the clinical and behavioral healthcare tracks, a community track will focus on the needs of the patient, providing healthcare resources, how to access those resources, and how to advocate for positive health outcomes.

OBJECTIVES

Upon the conclusion of this program, the participant will be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the primary terminology used within the transgender community
- Identify and access resources and guidelines specific to transgender care
- Discuss barriers faced by transgender individuals in accessing appropriate medical and behavioral health care

Medical Sessions

- Identify the unique medical needs of transgender patients
- Develop a treatment plan for caring for youth and adult transgender patients that is culturally competent and patient-centered
- Provide appropriate preventive health care for patients
- Educate patients on the basics of hormone therapy when hormonal transition is desired
- Discuss issues that may arise during surgical transition

Behavioral Health Sessions

- Review the historical treatment of transgender individuals by the mental health profession and relate the effects of stigmatization on the mental health of transgender clients
- Implement the WPATH standards of care and other resources used as guidelines for providing services to youth and adult clients
- Describe the unique mental health challenges that transgender people face, and discuss trauma informed and/or evidence based clinical interventions for supporting clients with these challenges

Community Sessions

- Discuss the legal concerns facing transgender people and review available legal resources
- Review the benefits and barriers associated with health insurance coverage
- Explore methods and practices of emotional/physical health, self-care, and resilience
- Explore opportunities for community-based support of transgender youth and elders

FACULTY

Allister Styan coordinates the transgender health program at WNC Community Health Services. In this capacity he works to provide members of the local transgender community with access to affirming and respectful healthcare while also addressing other areas where transgender individuals are faced with a lack of resources. He assisted in the development of an interagency collaboration for the care of transgender children and adolescents in WNC and is working to develop a broader local network of transgender-affirming service providers.

Mara Keisling is the founding Executive Director of the National Center for Transgender Equality. Mara is a transgender-identified woman and a parent. As one of the nation's leading voices for transgender equality, Mara has appeared on news outlets including CNN, MSNBC, and Fox News. Mara is regularly quoted in national and local print and broadcast media. Since NCTE's founding in 2003, the organization has led or participated in coalition efforts that have won significant advances in transgender equality. Mara is a graduate of Penn State University and did her graduate work at Harvard University in American Government. She has almost twenty-five years of professional experience in social marketing and opinion research.

Holiday Simmons, MSW, is a Black Cherokee transmasculine two-spirit activist, athlete, and lover of babies, soccer, and the ocean. He has a background in Social Work, Education, and Performing Arts & Activism. Simmons has worked with youth in foster care, taught GED, has managed education initiatives, and has facilitated numerous creative writing and spoken word workshops with groups of youth, queer and trans* people, women, and Africana and Latino communities both in the U.S. and abroad. Holiday is currently the Director of Community Education and Advocacy at Lambda Legal, the oldest and largest national legal organization committed to achieving full recognition of the civil rights of LGBT people and people with HIV. At Lambda Legal he focuses on transgender rights, dismantling the school-to-prison pipeline, police misconduct, and amplifying the voices of LGBT Native Americans and two-spirit people.

Dara Hoffman-Fox, LPC, is a Licensed Professional Counselor and gender therapist in private practice. Frequently serving as a resource on gender and transgender issues for the media, Dara's blog and videos are read and viewed around the world. Dara is a member of the World Professional Association for Transgender Health (WPATH) and the author of You and Your Gender Identity: A Guide to Discovery (discoveryyourgenderidentity.com).

Jennifer Abbott, MD, is a board certified family physician, with Western North Carolina Community Health Services since 2005. She is a graduate of the University of Colorado School of Medicine and MAHEC Family Medicine Residency Program. Her practice includes pediatric, adolescent and adult medicine, as well as HIV care. She oversees her clinic's Transgender Health Program, which now includes over 200 gender non-conforming adolescent and adult patients. She is also certified as an HIV Specialist through the American Academy of HIV Medicine, and performs GYN procedures including colposcopy. She is a member of the American Academy of Family Physicians, and the World Professional Association for Transgender Health (WPATH).

Aydin Olson-Kennedy, MSW, ACSW, is the Director of the Los Angeles Gender Center where he provides psychotherapy for gender non-conforming and transgender youth, adults and their families. As a transgender man and mental health provider, he brings a dual perspective into his advocacy and education work. He has spoken around the country for the past two decades about the importance of rights for transgender and gender non-conforming individuals, with emphasis on identifying and acknowledging domains of privilege.

Tori Cooper, BA, MPHc, is a Health Educator at Positive Impact Health Centers in metro Atlanta, Georgia. She successfully worked for over 20 years in management at Bloomingdales, Macys and Ulta Salon & Fragrance. She began volunteering with people living with HIV/AIDS in the late 1980s and decided a few years ago to change careers and fulfill her passion of working with those most impacted by the epidemic. After a successful career in management, Tori went back to school to complete her Bachelor of Arts degree in Human Services and Master of Arts in Public Health. She now uses her time and talents to train in cultural competency, diversity, HIV & std education and a myriad of other social and public health issues. She works mostly with vulnerable populations including the transgender and African American communities. Ms. Cooper believes that "To whom much is given, much is required." She has been honored by a number of organizations over the years and she was awarded the 2016 Kenneth Johnson Award for volunteerism from the African American Outreach Initiative. Most recently, Tori was selected as a 2016 AIDSWalk Ambassador for her work with people living with HIV/AIDS. This is certainly an honor that she is extremely proud of. Tori Cooper is a gifted speaker, a published author, a loyal friend and a tireless advocate. She is the founder and facilitator of HoP, the Hour of Power Empowerment Program held twice monthly for the Trans and Gender nonconforming communities. She is the Lead Facilitator of TWILLOW which is a CDC intervention for transgender women living with HIV. In addition, she faithfully attends Tabernacle Baptist Church, a church of Love & Acceptance, under the pastorate of Bishop-Elect Dennis A. Meredith.

Johanna Olson, MD, is an Adolescent Medicine physician specializing in the care of gender non-conforming children and transgender youth. Board certified in Pediatrics and Adolescent Medicine, Dr. Olson has been an Assistant Professor at Children's Hospital Los Angeles for the past nine years. Dr. Olson has been providing medical intervention for transgender youth and young adults including puberty suppression and cross sex hormones for the past six years, and is considered a national expert in this area. Dr. Olson is the Medical Director of The Center for Transyouth Health and Development at Children's Hospital in Los Angeles, the largest transgender youth clinic in the United States. Dr. Olson has appeared frequently on national television, and spoken all over the country to educate providers, parents, and other communities about the needs of transgender youth.

Aleece Fosnight, MSPAS, PA-C, CSC, CSE, has been working as a urology physician assistant for the past five years in Western North Carolina. She graduated from the University of Kentucky PA Program in 2011 and completed a postgraduate certificate at the University of Michigan in sexual health, as well as is a nationally certified sexual health counselor and educator. Aleece provides comprehensive urologic care to all generations. Her training includes pelvic floor dysfunction, biofeedback, pelvic organ prolapse, pelvic pain, low libido, interstitial cystitis, menopause, female sexual health, low testosterone, erectile dysfunction, and LGBTQ urology care. Aleece and her supervising physician provide bilateral orchiectomies to MtF patients, as well as other trans urology healthcare. She is the current president for the Association of Physician Assistants in Obstetrics and Gynecology (APAOG) and very active in promoting sexual health awareness to her local community through group sessions and presentations. She has worked closely with the local college as an advocate for sexual assault awareness on college campuses and helped them develop a new protocol for sexual assault prevention and safety.

Hope Sherie, MD, FACS

The Cosmetic Concierge, PLLC
Charlotte, NC

Heather Edwards, PT, earned her Masters in Physical Therapy from Western Carolina University in 2003 and has since completed all three levels of the American Physical Therapy Association's pelvic floor instruction. She is the owner and sole therapist at Resilient Pelvic Healing in Asheville, North Carolina. Additionally, she continues her 13 year career at Haywood Regional Medical Center outpatient physical therapy focusing on pelvic PT. In 2014, she founded VINO & VULVAS, an inclusive "edutainment" event series with local experts discussing topics of sexuality, relationships, and gender. She is currently in the process of several transgender pelvic health outreach projects including the Transgender Pelvic Health Initiative survey, community discussions, workshops, and a Pelvic Guru online course that will be unfolding over the next year. She is very excited to be presenting at the Southeastern Transgender Health Summit.

George R. Brown, MD, DFAPA, is Professor of Psychiatry and Associate Chairman for Veterans Affairs at East TN State University and Mountain Home VA Medical Center in Johnson City, TN. He has served four terms on the Board of Directors for the World Professional Association for Transgender Health, the only international organization that focuses on transgender health. He is a coauthor on the last three versions of the Standards of Care, and is currently working on the Version 8 committee. Dr. Brown served 12 years in the US Air Force as a psychiatrist, leaving after Desert Storm to serve Veterans. He has provided psychiatric and medical services for transgender active duty service members and Veterans during his 30+ years with DoD and VHA. Dr. Brown researches healthcare disparities within VA, including the largest study of transgender people ever done, worldwide. He has published over 55 papers and book chapters on gender-related topics, and an additional 126 publications and book chapters.

Dr. Brown has been very involved with policy development within VHA, having coauthored the pharmacy benefits package for transgender Veterans and the current VA Directive that mandates transgender and intersex health care in VHA. He is also actively involved a national trainer for VHA clinicians to develop national, regional, and facility level expertise in the diagnosis and management, including hormonal management, of gender dysphoria conditions. Recently, he has been asked to provide training for the Department of Defense in light of the recent policy changes for transgender service members. Dr. Lynn Marlow graduated from Duke University in 1976, and earned her Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology from Virginia Commonwealth University in 1985. After 20 years of practicing clinical psychology in her own Connecticut private practice, she joined the Charles George VA as a staff psychologist in 2007. As the Military Sexual Trauma (MST) Coordinator, Dr. Marlow provides services for female and male Veteran patients who have suffered sexual trauma, whether inflicted in civilian life or military service. Dr. Marlow has also been involved since the outset in development of mental health programming for LGBT Veterans, including support groups and screening for transgender medical care. She has been active in advocating for LGBT Veterans, and in facilitating projects that enhance awareness and acceptance. She is very proud to have been chosen to serve as one of two LGBT Veteran Care Co-Coordination for the Charles George VA.

Luce Beagle, LPC, LCASA, ICCE, LMBT, is a masculine-of-center person who serves the trans* community through psychotherapy with a focus on gender issues. Luce has been a private practice massage therapist and certified birth professional for 12 years. He also consults and educates for the childbearing year. He graduated in 2012 from Western Carolina University with a Master's degree in Clinical Mental Health. His master's thesis focused on the transmasculine and non-binary experience with mental health providers. Recently, Luce completed Transgender Health: Best Practices in Medical and Mental Health Foundational Training with World Professional Association for Transgender Health (WPATH) in November of 2015. Luce is an active member of WPATH. He is the founder of Mandoula: Birthing classes for Trans*men, Butches and Gender Fluid People.

Asa Radix, MD, MPH, FACP, is the Director of Research and Education at Callen-Lorde Community Health Center and an Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine at New York University. Originally from the West Indies, Asa later trained in internal medicine and infectious diseases at the University of Connecticut and completed postgraduate qualifications in tropical medicine and public health in the United Kingdom. In addition to having a clinical practice (mainly HIV primary care and transgender health), Asa coordinates electives in LGBT Health for medical and nursing students. Before coming to Callen-Lorde, Asa was the director of a public health department in the Netherlands Antilles and assisted in the development of insular strategic plans for HIV prevention as well as federal guidelines for communicable disease prevention. A major focus of Dr. Radix' work overseas has been the development and dissemination of prevention, treatment and care guidelines for HIV+ and at-risk persons in the Caribbean including provision of LGBT cultural competency training to healthcare providers. Dr. Radix has presented both nationally and internationally on LGBT issues, has published widely in the field of transgender health, and has assisted in developing guidelines in transgender health for the World Health Organization, the Pan American health Organization and The Asa Pacific Transgender Network.

Dr. Radix serves on numerous boards, including the Medical Advisory Board of the UCSF Center of Excellence for Transgender Health, The New York State HIV Quality of Care Advisory Committee (STI sub-committee), New York City Gender Marker Change Advisory Board, the NYS Medicaid drug utilization review board and is the co-chair of the WHO/PAHO HIV/STI technical advisory committee. Asa is an associate editor of Transgender Health and member of the editorial boards for the International Journal of Transgenderism and the PRN Notebook. Other contributions include being co-investigator for 5 federally funded studies, including a demonstration project on PREP.

Kelly Durden-Posey, JD, served as the managing attorney for the region's first LGBTQ Law Center. There, she worked to provide direct legal services, community resources and education to those in and in support of the LGBTQ community. She provided legal services in a wide variety of areas but most specifically in the areas most disproportionately affecting the lgbtq community. She created interactive presentations to increase cultural competency and legal education for groups including Time Out Youth, Equality NC's board of directors, Charlotte Mecklenburg Schools, and the Charlotte School of Law to name a few. She has spoken at various conferences including Creating Change and LGBT in the South Conference in effort to bring a voice to some of the most marginalized groups. Kelly proudly served in this position from the opening of the Law Center until it was forced to close due to lack of funding in late 2014.

Kelly earned her Juris Doctor from UNC School of Law in Chapel Hill and her B.A. in English and Spanish from UNC-Wilmington. Much of her early legal career was spent with Legal Aid of North Carolina as a staff attorney representing low income populations and victims of domestic violence and Legal Services of Southern Piedmont representing unaccompanied immigrant children. She currently serves as a Contract attorney and Legal Consultant for local Law Firms and nonprofit organizations.

Jenny Shealy is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker with a psychotherapy practice in Asheville NC. She obtained her Master of Social Work from San Francisco State University and Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, with a Women's Studies Minor, from Clemson University. Jenny has provided mental health services within residential treatment, homeless youth facilities, HIV and AIDS research, outpatient medical settings, jails and schools. She currently works with adults and couples and provides presentations about how to better support transgender individuals. Jenny hosts a trans* affirming providers' consultation group in Asheville. She is trained in EMDR and specializes in working with the LGBTQ community. Jenny is particularly passionate about collaborating with transgender clients.

Jorge Alonzo, JD, is a project manager at Wake Forest School of Medicine and is part of a team that specializes in HIV prevention research using community-based participatory research (CBPR) with immigrant Latinos. He has been involved in the design, development, implementation and evaluation of HIV prevention interventions for Latino gay and bisexual men and men who have sex with men (MSM), and Latina transgender women. He has also been involved in projects exploring the impact of immigration enforcement on access to and utilization of public health services among Latinos and developing recommendations to reduce health access barriers for these populations. Jorge has been working with the Latino community in NC since the 1990s in sexual health promotion and education.

Lilli Mann, MPH, is a Research Associate in the Department of Social Sciences and Health Policy at the Wake Forest School of Medicine. She is involved in the development, implementation, and evaluation of community-based participatory research (CBPR) studies, focusing on interventions promoting health services access, sexual and reproductive health, HIV prevention, and HIV care linkage and retention among racial/ethnic minority communities, LGBT communities, and young people

Cristina Morales is the coordinator of the transgender women's group at El Centro Hispano in Durham, NC. She focuses primarily on the physical and mental health of undocumented Latino transgender communities, identifying low-cost medical resources so that each Latina transgender woman can go through the process of hormone therapy under the supervision of a health professional. She is also involved in HIV and STD prevention efforts and carries out rapid HIV testing throughout the local Latino LGBTQ community.
