

RURAL HEALTH SOLUTIONS SERIES

Starting February 26, 2021

FREE LIVE WEBINAR SERIES

DESCRIPTION

This virtual series will convene regional partners from non-profit, healthcare, public health, communities, and state and local government. Our goal is to learn about, discuss, and collaborate on solutions to challenges and changes in the rural health landscape of Western North Carolina.

The format will consist of four 1-hour lead-in sessions featuring panelists from a cross section of our rural region. Please join us as we partner to explore regional solutions to individual, community, and systems-level health challenges in Western North Carolina.

NOTE: The Rural Solutions Summit—originally planned as the culminating event of this series—will be postponed until 2022 due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

AUDIENCE

Our target audience includes a wide cross section of individuals and organizations working in rural health. The series will be of interest to those working in public health, local government, nonprofits, community-based organizations, health and mental healthcare including: physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, nurses, mental health professionals, social workers, integrated healthcare professionals, public health professionals, psychologists, substance use counselors, and all healthcare professionals working with patients and their families in rural areas.

OBJECTIVES

Upon completion, participants will be able to:

- Explore the needs of our regional rural healthcare and public health landscape that impact individuals and communities in Western North Carolina
- Connect providers with partners, services, and resources in the region who are already engaged in innovative approaches to support community health
- Examine funding opportunities, partners, and priorities that are designed to improve and support rural health in Western North Carolina
- Describe evidence-based models and practice to support the work across sectors in rural communities
