DESCRIPTION

Join us for this informative seminar providing an overview of the use of evidence-based practice and evidence-based treatment interventions in children's mental health. Key ethical issues inherent in evidence-based practice processes will be discussed in relationship to the delivery of child and adolescent mental health services. This course offers a great opportunity for all mental health clinicians to enhance and broaden their understanding of ethics and enhance their practices in relation to caring for children, adolescents, and their families.

This presenter is being supported through a partnership between the UNC School of Social Work and the NC AHEC Program.

MAHEC assumes permission to use audio, video and still images from this program for promotional and educational purposes. Please speak with a staff member if you have any concerns.

INCLUDES 4.0 HRS OF ETHICS CREDIT

AUDIENCE

Mental health professionals, including psychologists, licensed clinical social workers, licensed professional counselors, substance use professionals, licensed marriage and family therapists, peer support specialists, and other professionals interested in this topic.

OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this seminar, participants will be able to:

- Define evidence-based practice and evidence-based treatment interventions and distinguish between the two
- Identify connections between evidence-based practice and ethical practice in the treatment of child and adolescent mental health
- Discuss key ethical dilemmas in the implementation of evidence-based treatment interventions
