FACULTY

Susan Alexander, MD is a MAHEC Family Medicine physician practicing in WNC. She sees patients at MAHEC Family Medicine in Enka/Candler, just west of Asheville at the foot of Mount Pisgah. She provides care across the spectrum of family medicine, including care for newborns, children, adults, and pregnant women.

Suzette M. LaRoche, MD is an epileptologist and Medical Director of the Epilepsy Center at Mission Health in Asheville, NC.

Joshua Schactman, MSW, LCAS-A, LCSW, joined MAHEC in December 2014. He has worked in adult mental health since 1999 and adult/child mental health since 2007. Before coming to MAHEC, he helped establish walk-in counseling and assessment services for adults and children in an outpatient community mental health setting. He has also regularly consulted with the DSS on complex cases in Rutherford and Polk Counties. Prior to this, he worked in an adult substance abuse program and partial hospitalization programs. Schactman completed his undergraduate degree at the University of Massachusetts and obtained his MSW from the University of Georgia. He works with patients to build on their strengths and resiliency, while working to connect them with resources in their own community. He believes in matching interventions with patients' readiness to change and having the relationship as the focal point for the change agent.

Aaron Vaughan, MD, graduated from Wright State University Boonshoft School of Medicine and completed his residency in Family Medicine at the University of Virginia. He later completed a primary care sports medicine fellowship at UNC-CH, where he was the team physician for the Carolina Hurricanes professional hockey team as well as for UNC-CH. Dr. Vaughan moved to WNC in 2013, where he has been employed at MAHEC as the Sports Medicine Director as well as the Primary Care Sports Medicine Fellowship Director. Dr. Vaughan is active at the national level with the AMSSM (American Medical Society for Sports Medicine) conducting research on a yearly basis. Locally, he serves as the team physician for UNC-A, Warren Wilson College, Carolina Day School, North Buncombe High School, and Asheville Rugby Football Club. Additionally, he is active in the community with coverage of local events—including Special Olympics, Girls on the Run, and multiple mass participation events.
